ABOUT US

The Center for Technology, Enterprise and Development is a non-profit organization that supports the successful development of entrepreneurs, small companies, and start-up businesses. The TED Center offers an array of business support resources and services, coordinated through strategic management and a network of contacts. The services are developed to increase the likelihood that small start-up companies will remain in business for the long term.

For more than three decades, the TED Center has prided itself on being a management consulting non-profit organization committed to helping organizations and small businesses tackle tough issues. We provide comprehensive solutions to complex problems facing organizations by working directly with them to address their most critical challenges.

The TED Center understands the challenge in achieving economic sufficiency for new and existing businesses. Guiding, directing, training, and mentoring are customized solutions that meet the needs of small businesses. We provide services and resources to businesses that address the “real” or the perceived issues and challenges facing businesses today. The TED Center will work with partners and associations to help train, guide, lead, mentor and share principles for participants to build their businesses and markets.
